ON BOARD THE POST-DISPATCH FLOOD RE-LIEF STEAMER, May 20 .- The following people were saved from the flooded district of houteau Island by the Post-Dispatch Flood Bellef steamer, Tuesday and Tuesday night, our boat aground in a wheat field. There were in all twenty-five persons taken out of this deluged region. Their names, are:

HERMAN HUXEL, 85 years. MRS. HERMAN HUXEL. 28 VORTS. OHN HUXEL, 11 years. WILLIE HUXEL, 8 years. HERMAN HUXEL, 2 months. OLGA HANFELDER, 21 years. FRED Krug, 48 years. MRS. FRED KRUG, 16 years. his abandoned home toppling into the water. At that point the old man began sobbing and for several minutes could not continue. When he at last raised his head the tears were streaming down over his face.

"Thate to cry." he muttered in broken English, "but everything I had was in my home, and now it is all gone."

"His story was one of touching import.

"There are four families of us living here on Chouteau Island, which used to be called Madison, and many others in the neighborhood," he said. "There is myself, my wife, Anna, my oldest son, Heine, 10 years old, Freddy, 4 years old, Willie, and My little daughter, Sophle, 2 years. Then there is Fred Rock and his family, a wife, two boys and one girl, and a man named Hoeckstras, his wife and a 2-months-old child, born on March 17. Then some distance back of us there is another man whose name I don't know, who has a wife and family. We have been in great danger here for three days past. The dyke which protected us from the river broke last Sunday morning, and the water, without any warning, rushed down on us three feet deep. It came so suddenly that before I could get my family out from my house we were wading nearly waist deep in the flood, My house was on the lowest ground, and I had to abandon it at once. I have not been able to get anything out of it since, because the water rose too fast the next day. I have water rose too fast the next day. I have water rose too fast the next day. I have water rose too fast the next day. I have water rose too fast the next day. I have water and break to pieces. All I had in the world was there." It was at this point that Krug sobbed and wept, "and my family and I are homeless and without a dollar."

THE WELCOME WHISTLE.

It was just after my house began going to pieces that I heard the whistle of your boat as you came along the shore ontside. I could not see you for the woods between, but I began hollering to attract your attention. I heard your answering shouts and the four whistles from your boat, and the next thing I saw

We landed without difficulty at 9:50 at Wm. Kasting's house, about half a mile from the river, where the wretched people were sheltered and the work of embarkation began.

The barge brought from Alton was fitted up as a cattle pen. It was cut loose from the steamer and floated up to within a few feet of the entrance of Kasting's barn-yard, which was full of horses, males and cattle. The farmers turned out in force to build a stage-plank into force to build a stage-plank into the improvised ark. No difficulty was experienced in this work. The animals, themselves, seemed to great fun.

It was our intention to leave Kasting's as soon as everything was on board and proceed to the other farm houses in the neighborhood to pick up what remained of humanity on Chouteau's Island. We were ready to start at 12 o'clock, but by that time the wind blew a hurricane. It was impossible to navigate those dangerous waters in such a wind. Although the trees were not very thick, they were still numerous enough to make trouble if the boat became unmanagable. Besides, we were floating over a wheatheld, and to get out the utmost care and skillful steering was necessary to avoid snags and stumps which appeared here and there just above the surface. There was plenty of work shead of us, but it had to be abandoned until the fury of the storm should subside. We were particularly fortunate in having a good place to the up at Kasting's.

MADISON.

The Town Completely Under Water-Res cue of Colored People.

The rampage of the Father of Waters may be seen in all its might in the course of a ride over the Merchants' Terminal Bridge. The prolific parent of inland seas has, on the East side, in and about New Madison, a fam-ily of giant sons who have spread themselves over thousands of acres. The suggestion is offered to all who contemplate a trip to New Madison, that they secure a pair of rubper boots or a boat which can be carried in ections. The switches of the Merchants' to the Edwardsville road and to the very ap roach of the bridge. The repair track which runs eastward beyond Madison is completely submerged. The passenger track which lies along State street is under one of the correspondents, who had given up his bed, improvised one and laid down on a pile of sacks of flour. When we thought he he had gone to sleep, we heard him say:

"This flour is made out of hard winter wheat."

Only the wind blowing and the rain beating on the cabin roof could be heard. Everything else was still. The gale continued blowing, and with thowling winds about us, thus we spent the night.

South of the bridge approach is completely obliterated. The water dashes over it to the east, and to the South as far as the eye can reach and to the South as far as the eye can reach and to the West over to the St. Louis shore over three miles distant. Noah Jones' saloon, back of the round-house on State street, is approachable from the round-house, but further progress beyond was dangerous this morning, and impassable at noon except to boats and rubber clad pedestrians. From Jones' saloon a part of the wooden sidewalk of State street extends north about 150 feet, where it is lost to view. The water has underminded the walk and washes against it on each side as well as bubbles through it from the bottom. The walk is in fact an anchored raft, or a shakey pontoon, but not a substantial pavement by any manner of means. From this walk a giance to the west and northwest discloses the Madison Car shops in a sea of water. The round house almost half a mile distant is the nearest dry spot. The heroulean efforts which were made yesterday to save the foundry by heaps of sand were futile. Near the car-shops four cars loaded with lumber belonging to the New Madison Construction Co. stood on the submerged switch. An official of the lumber company stated to-day that 40,000 feet of timber were taken by rafts from these cars to Kinder where the firm are building ten houses for Mr. Neidringhaus. The same official stated that Kinder is the highest point in the vicinity and is still above water.

He intended to go to Kasting's for help Sunday morning, but during the night the water rose and carried the wagon-bed and contents away. The wheels and wagon frame are still stuck in the mud several feet under water.

Finding the channel around through wheat fields, among mounds and broken leves, is something that requires a grad deal of judgment and the work had to be carefully done, but the Post-Disparce relief boat spent the day miles farther out in the country than any steamboat had ever been before.

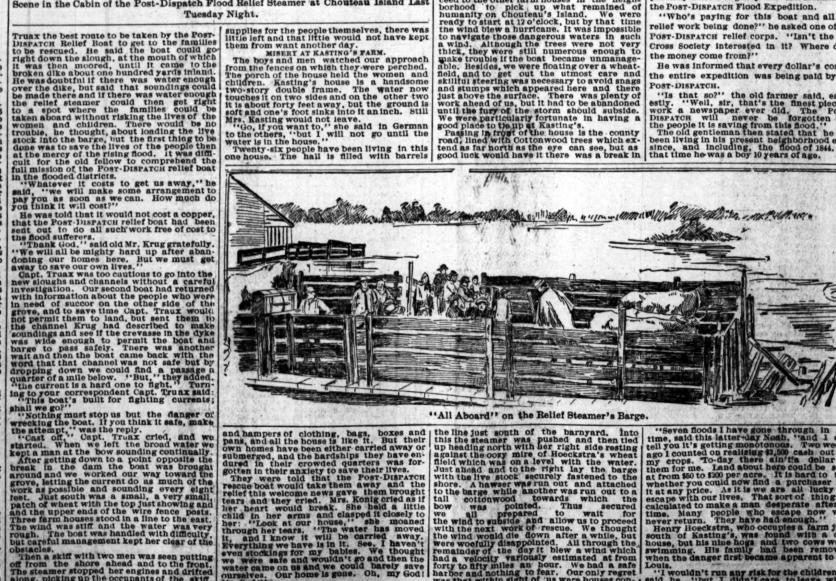

The Government light at the head of Chouteau Island is entirely gone.

The keepers of the Government lights along the river are having considerable trouble in keeping their lights burning. In some places the river is over the top of the posts, while in other places the posts are a half mile out in the river, with no skiff at hand to go to the light. Several of the light-keepers asked for instructions and were told to keep their lights burning as long as possible.

Louis to-day is very little changed from yes-terday. Since midnight last night the water in Cahokia Creek has remained stationary and to-day there is not so much strain on the temporary embankments, as the surface of the water is almost unbroken. The waves that threatened danger yes-and hampers of clothing, bags, boxes and pans, and all the house is like it. But their own homes have been either carried away or submerged, and the hardships they have endured in their crowded quarters was forgotten in their anxiety to save their lives.

They were told that the Post-Disparch rescue boat would take them away and the relief this welcome news gave them brought tears and they cried. Mrs. Konig cried as if lier heart would break. She held a little child in her arms and clasped if closely to her: 'Look at our house,' she moaned through her tears. 'The water has moved it, and I know it will be carried away. Everything we have is in it. See. I haven't even stockings for my bables. We thought we were safe and wouldn't go and then the water came on us and we could barely save ourselves. Our home is gone. Oh, my God! If the other women tried to console her, but in the end oldred in her tears and the children sympathalically cried with them.

Time was passing, however, and we must hurry. Then, too, we thought the best thing for them was to put them to work so we sent them into the bouse to pack up their "dunnage" and be ready to move when the stock was loaded. Mr. Kasting came up and we assed him what he would do with his family. 'I think they will stay,' he replied. "They have nothing to keep them. I am glad they have nothing to keep them. ### NO IMMEDIATE RELIEF.

A Slight Fall To-Day, to Be Followed by Another Rise To-Morrow. The river is falling at St. Louis to-day, and will begin to rise slowly again to-morrow or Sunday. This afternoon the gauge showed 25.7 feet, which is a fall of 8-10s from the guage measurement yesterday. The rise caused by the rains up above will reach St. Louis to-morrow night. The fall will be checked and the water will rise again about as high as 36 feet, but it will not go above. This second rise has already reached points above. The Misseari above Boonville is going up, and so is the Mississippi, above uincy. Signal Observer W. J. Hern don said to-day: "The river is not likely to become any worse than it has been this week, and it is possible to make calculations now upon the extent of floods, se far as the country about here is seemed. There is no rain in sight, and we will have none here for ten days. The wind is going down and there will be light winds to-morrow."

NORTH ST. LOUIS.

A Break in the Sewers Causes Much

The slight decline of the river last night did not prevent the back water from invading new territory last night. The lumber merchants and manufacturers have not relaxed their fight. The rise in the Missouri makes the feeling one of wretched uncertainty along the North St. Louis front, Teams are the feeling one of wretched uncertainty along the North St. Louis front. Teams are hauling dirt in all directions and scores of men keep uncensingly at work strengthening the dises to withhold the ravages of the river. The river is closing in on that section of the Merchants' Terminal Railroad, which runs northward from Breman avenue and taps the Merchants' Bridge approach at Hall and angelica street. There is no longer room for pedestrians in that neighborhood. Here all of the great freight movement east and West from a half dozen trunk lines is handled over the Merchants' Bridge. About 600 car loads are handled daily over the Jacksonville & Southsater, the Olover Leaf and Vandalia, who have direct entrance to the city. This does not include the local transfer system at all. Yardmaster Shea's, office is already surrounded by the flood, and a few more inches of a flood will make him vacate. The freight movement, however, while seriously threatened, can continue, unless the river rises very considerably. Not only are the factories in North St. Louis disturbed and damaged by the river, but there is additional drouble. The suspension of the rail-road operations has caused a number of the factories to suspend work because of the inability of the railroads to deliver raw material. The Summa Bros. Dig collar works at Broadway and Destrehan street has had to shut down for this cause. A force of men were industriously at work building a dam that runs along the east side of Hail street, running from Angeirodt to Bremen avenue, to serve as a protection to the Mallinkrodt Chemical works, Bucks Stove & Kange Works, the Stern & Mohlman lumber yards and the Niedringhaus Rolling Mill, properties which occupy the adjoining streets west. A number of engines and freight cars from the east side of Hail street, running from Angeirodt to Bremen avenue. It was the flood refugees hower brought over to the north end roads last night to save them from the river. There was a pittid scene all day yesterday on the Merchants' Terminal, Hal nothers haggard with care, the always retty baby with dimples in its cheeks, its title thumb in its mouth. Then there was he rather and husband fatigued with a long gut with the flood and weighed down with uses that robbed him of all be had. He cand himself in a strange city with strange coule.

The Transfer-Boat Pacific Sent From Ca rondelet to Reseue the Sufferers. o'clock this morning Police Captain perintendent of the Missouri Pacific Transfer Co. and asked Clerk Gaskill if he would allow one of the transfer boats to be utilized to-day to save the people who were still confined at their homes in East Carondelet. Mr. Gaskill immediately telegraphed to Capt. W. H. Grapevine, the superintendent, at Memphis, Tenn., for permission to grant the request. It was 11:30 o'clock when word was received that they could use the boat. Capt. Boyd selected a crew and with Capt. Joseph Zeller at the wheel, the transfer boat Pacific put out for the watery little hamiet. At noon the Pacific was making its way slowly through the williows toward the village.

Oapt. Boyd expects to remove every man, woman and child out of their homes to Carondelet. Those who have already been moved to Carondelet are being well cared for. The majority of the people who have been rescued from their perilous position in East. Carondelet have decided that they will not live there again. There are a number of families in East Carondelet in need of food and shelter, and some in actual danger of drowning, but many of them refuse to leave, as they want to keep watch on their homes and property. Capt. Boyd will endeavor to persuade all of them to Transfer Co. and asked Clerk Gaskill if he

In the center of the heap, raised a few inches from the water, was a bird's nest, and in it sat a female thrush. Now and then the mother would rise from the nest, flutter above it a few feet and then settle down again. Glasses leveled on the nest from the boat showed that the bird was in charge of five args. She was hatching them when the water took away the bush she had made her home, and started it down stream. down stream.

At the foot of Salisbury street the pile of driftwood bearing the nest passed by a skin in which were two men and a woman. The woman showed it to the carsmen and they drew in the bird's nest. The thrush rose in the air as the boatmen took the nest and flew after the skin as it went across the river. the air as the boatmen took the nest and flew after the skiff as it went across the river.

Brolaski to-day, as he leaned over the railing of the Spread Eagle and looked over into East St. Louis. "All that country," he continued, waving his hand so that it included the whole eastern shore, will be found a foot or two higher when the river leaves. The water deposits a thick sediment wherever it stands. When the river goes down from the Levee there will be two or three feet of mud on the granite, and the fire engines and harbor boat will be busy all this summer washing it off."

With a few more inches rise the river would have passed its records of 1851 and 1858. It has afready broken the record of 1883, which was 34.10. That of 1851 was 36.6 and that of 1883 was 36.8. The river got up then to, 41.9. Capt. James L. Huse says the Indians have a tradition that in 1785 the river rose far beyond any of these flood marks and inundated and of the present site of St. Louis, so that they sailed over it in their canoes and fished in a great lake where Forest Park is now.

AT THE WATER-WORKS.

No Danger of the City's Water Supply Being Cut Cff. city's water supply by the flood-ing of the Water-works is unwould take It river founded. It would take fully were five feet of water to dismantle all the low service pumps, and even then a panic coul be avoided, as an employe at the works said this morning by cutting the dikes and letting the wate flow into the the reservoir. From there could be forced into the city pipes by the hig service engines which are above the water reach.

flow into the the reservoir. From there it could be forced into the city pipes by the high service engines which are above the water's reach.

Hendreds of sight seers went out to the works this morning—some on pleasure bent, others deeply interested in the status of the city's water supply. For all of them Superintendent Beard had encourtgaing words. The situation of the country around the works gives a fair idea of the extent of the flood. To the right, the valley of the Merchants' Terminal Railway is submerged as far as the eye can reach. On the left the tops of trees and houses peep up from the vast sheet of water that stretches as far north as the eye can reach. This morning a number of skiffs were busy removing powder kegs from the three magazines to dry land. Between the high and low service pumping stations extends a vast sheet of water broken only by the conduit and the W. St. L. & P. R. R. tracks. The garden along the high service pumph-house was shorn of its beauty to day by a dike thrown up to keep off the water from the north side. Eight thousand sacks of sand have been placed along the edge of the conduit and embankments to keep them from being washed away by the abgry flood.

A glance at the movable low-service pumps from the bridge leading out to the inlet town would lead one to the conclusion that they were unfit for service. The houses are moved up and down according to the stage of the water on the floor the pumps keep up a steady stroke. The water is within six inches of the pumps, but the superintendent said he could work them if they stood in water two feet deep. One advantage is that the boller-rooms stand upon a higher elevation and fully seven feet of water would be required to put the fires out. In the stationary low service pump-house, which runs deep down below the river's surface, some trouble has been experienced by seeping water, but a force is kept on hand pumping it out.

THE RAILBOAD SITUATION.

St. Louis Lines Running East Are Han-dling All Their Business. The reports of the flood in the East St. Louis low lands have been taken by many to mean that the lines running east out of St. Louis have been crippled and are not able to handle their business. This is a mistake that is their business. This is a mistake that is causing many travelers who would in ordinary times go by St. Louis to journey long distances out of their way in attempting to avoid the blockade they think is here. Passenger traffic over all of the lines is proceeding without the least interruption or delay. Geheral Manager W. B. Shattue of the Ohio & Mississippl, who has been very much annoyed by Rotes From the Laves. The passengers on the Spread Ragie, ng from Alton, saw a curious sight to fast above the Merchants' Bridge the Buildings to Be Inspected.

With the subsidence of the deluge Building inspector Reid, with the aid of a corps of nspectors will investigate all of the buildings along the leves to ascertain if the encroach ment of the river under their foundations left any of them in an unsafe condition. It is ex-pected that a number of them will not stand inspection. Many of the oldest buildings in the city are located along the wharf frontage and some of them without having their foundations scaked by the flood were delapi-deted enough anybox.

Attacked an Exorbitant Boat Owner. While the Anchor Line steamer Crystal City river on the last trip an exciting wrangle occurred on the bank. Aswarthy young Frenchman named Doza jumped off the boat as soon as it landed and walked up to a busty-headed German standing in the crowd on the landing. Doza denounced him in all kind of language charging that he had refused to give up his skifts to the water bound people of Kaskaskia unless they paid exorbitant prices for them. There was a short fight but bystanders prevented anything serious. Doza was in a furious mood and some of the crowd looked for a shooting affair. The Frenchman, who is one of the trustees of Kaskaskia, told the owner of the skifts that if the people of that village needed the boats they would take them whether he liked it or not and that if would be an unhealthy proceeding for him to interfere. St. Mary's is on an elevation on the Missouri side and in no danger whatever, while Kaskaskia on the opposite side is almost entirely submerged.

The graphic description in last Tuesday's Post-Dispatch of the perilius position of the lonely cow that was flood-bound on a narrow strip of ground above the Merchants' Bridge has attracted public attention to the animal's helpless situation. Secretary Page of the Missouri Humane Society said this morning that an effort would be made to rescue the animal. The Woman's Humane Society are also interested in Bossey's welfare and it is safe to say that before nightfall she will again ruminate on dry land if there is any way to take her off the knoll. Both societies have had a constant stream of caliers and a veritable flood of communications in reference to the animal, and Secretary Page is anxious to learn whether there is not some way of landing a boat near enough to the knoll to rescue the cow.

Mr. T. C. Johnson, a citizen of Madison went through the country east of the town in a skilf to-day. He said that the enormous flood of water which has poured into Madison within the last twenty-four hours was due to a break in the Toledo tracks which let the water out of Horseshoe Lake into Madison and down upon Venice and East St. Louis. He stated that he had knowledge of an old negro who was in a freight-car, and he fired a gun to attract the man's attention. No response came and Mr. Tohnson paid another negro to rescue the aged darkey. Mr. Johnson stated that the negroes in Brookiyn were in absolute want. A car loaded with cattle stood in the water near Hrookiyn for twenty-four hours. The poor brutes had neither food nor drink, and were rescued yesterday only by the combined strength of four engines.

SOME OF THE IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE CONSIDERED.

Methodist General Conference Involved Over Travelling Expenses-Meeting of Southern Presbyterians at Hot Springs-Young Christians Gather in Ohio-Religious News.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20 .- The half hour's levotional services in the General Assembly were led to-day by Dr. John A. Donaldson of Minneapolis. Promptly at the appointed hour the moderator called the assembly to order. After the preliminary routine, Dr. Brown of the Arrangements Committee in a speech presented the moderator with a gavel made of Oregon wood and silver and gold.

The moderator then announced the membership of the various standing committees. The chairmanships were distributed as fol lows: Bills and Overtures, Dr. Radelife of Detroit; Judicial Committee, Dr. T. Raiston Smith of Buffalo; Polity of the Church. Dr. Bartlett of Washington; Home Missions, Dr. McPherson of Chicago; Foreign Missions, McPherson of Chicago; Foreign Missions, Dr. Alexander Alison of Philadelphia, Pa.; Education, Dr. Leggott of Rahway; Publication, Dr. Sample of New York; Church Brection, Dr. Holmes of Albany; Theological Seminaries, Dr. Muchmore of Philadelphia; Ministerial Relief, Mr. Robinson of Allegheny; Freedmen, Dr. Sutheriand of Knoxville; Aid for Colleges, Dr. Alexander of San Francisco; Correspondence, Dr. Blayney of Kentucky; Benevolence, Dr. Wallace of Lewiston, Pa.; Narrative on the State of Religion, Rev.

Pa.; Narrative on the State of Religion, Rev. Dr. Worrail of Keokuk; Temperance, Dr. Bigger of Ohio.

After the announcement of committees a motion was adopted that the report of the Committee on Revision be made the second order for Monday afternoon next.

motion was adopted that the report of the Committee on Revision be made the second order for Monday afternoon next.

There are several very important questions which will come up for settlement at this conference of the Presbyterians. For one thing, the question of creed revision, so far as fallible men can forteell, is to be settled this year; not that the work is to be finished, but the question whether there is to be a revised creed or a new creed is to be decided. For a number of years the question of the revision of the Westminster standards has been before the church and the public. For two years a committee has been actively at work trying to revise the old confession, which has stood practically untouched since its formation in 1643-48. On the committee are some of the ablest scholars, clerical and lay, among the 6,000 or more ministers of the assembly and its 700,000 communicants, and these twenty-five men have not, in the opinion of some, brought forth that result which will satisfy the church and keep it united. Those who call for a new creed are a larger number than those who originally demanded revision, and some who pleaded for revision during the debate in the presbyteries have thrown over that idea completely, coming round to the decision made by the most conservative men at the outset, that a revision of the confession was practically impossible. This they are willing to concede now, but instead of expressing satisfaction with the unrevised confession they demand that a new creed shall be prepared, and so it is not improbable that the present laborious work carried on by the present Revision Committee has done little more than convince the church that revision was impossible.

But the matter possessing the most vital interest to the church in general is that which is known from one end of the religious world to the other as the Briggs case.

Dr. Charles A. Briggs of the Union Theological Seminary of New York, has been on trial before his own presbytery charged with hereby and treater of the gen relations were so strained that the seminary would leave the assembly.

Before the conference had held its final session, the case against Dr. Briggs had been dismissed by the presbytery by a large vote, but the Prosecuting Committee had issued an appeal to the general assembly against the Presbytery for dismissing the case, and its appeal will come before the assembly next week. Members of the presbytery, including those who were on the Prosecuting Committee, have also made a compaint to the Synodo of New York for the decision of the presbytery, so that it is uncertain what the issue of this case will be. Dr. Briggs is sustained in New York by his colleagues in the faculty, and by hearly every one of the directors, and by a large number of the leading men in the city pulpits. He has just passed his 50th birthday, and is extremely popular with the men who take his special course. During the winter he has given what would have been his defense hiad the research what would have been his defense hiad the Presbyterian churches of New York, so that the public has had the benefit of his wew regarding the points brought against him by the Prosecuting Committee.

garding the points brought against him by the Prosecuting Committee.

OTHER IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

Aside-from the question of revision and the Briggs matter there are fifteen special committees relating to church unity, the deacons and the deaconesses of the church, Indian schools, Sabbath observance, the Columbian Exposition, the German theological seminaries, the Jacksonville church at Florida and the seal of the Church. Some of these committees reported at Detroit. It is sincerely hoped by those who attended the instassembly that the profitees discussion recarding the church seal will not be continued this year. Valuable time was spent in explaining whether the seal should contain as it does now the picture of a serpent on the cross, or whether it should have an open Bible. Dr. McCook of Philadelphia was the champion of the present seal. The committee appointed to raise $7.500 to reimburse the Prestylerian Church in Jacksonville is expected to report that its work has been successful. Dr. John Hall of New York is the chairman of this committee. Dr. Smith of Baltimore, who has done so much to harmonize the differences between the Northern and Southern assembles, and to bring about a union between the Presbyterian and Protestant Episcopal, did not succeed in accomplishing either purpose completely, but he secures this: Federation, practical sympathy by both parties, and the recognition by each of the rights of the other.

Work OUTLINED.

The new Moderator will be chosen this af-and announce them. To these standing committees will be referred the reports of the several boards of the church and other sace besiness as may naturally come before them For instance, the Standing Committee of Foreign Missions will receive the report of the foreign board for the year ending Aprils Then a representative of the board, one of the Corresponding Secretaries, will speak, as will be followed by other friends of foreign wissions and he some of the refused in will be followed by other friends of foreign will be followed by other friends of foreign missions, and by some of the returned missionaries, who are in attendance at the dissonaries, who are in attendance at the dissonaries, who are in attendance at the dissonaries, who are in attendance from their presbyteries or as spectators. The evening of the same day will be devoted to a pomiar meeting as it is called, when the cause of the board is explained more in detail. This meeting is not a business meeting and the audience is composed more of the people of the city and the members of the woman's board who have been unable to hear the addresses of the morning. What is true of the foreign board is true of the nome board, the board of pablication and several other departments of the church work. The standing rules of the General Assembly provide for the following meet devotions at the Methodist Episcopal General Conference to-day. About the first thing that was sprung was a question of finances. Mr. Amos Shinkle, treasurer of the funds to pay the traveling expenses of the delegates, arose and said that the funds had not been paid in from the annual conference treasurers in a sufficient amount to pay all the traveling expenses of the delegates. Some one suggested that the amount be Dorrowed from the Book Concern. Then the music began. Some very vigorous remarks were offered. One delegate declared that it was nonsense to tak about borrowing the money from the Book Concern, because the amount would never be paid back. The general conferences had borrowed from the Book Concern, because the amount would never be paid back. The general conferences had borrowed from the Book Concern, because the amount result of the money. The conference ought to simply make an appropriation. ### PROPOSED PLAN FOR A 10-CENT POPULAR CONTRIBUTION.

The Need Is Pressing and the Ory for Help Must Be Answered by the People of St. Louis-Boxes Auctioned on 'Change for the Relief Benefit at the Olympic Theater Saturday Night-Contributions to the flood sufferers.

He gives more than twice who gives quickly

The money is needed now by the thousands of families who have been made homeless by the flood. They must have food, shelter and clothing. There will be no red tape about the distribution of the 'money. It will go directly from the giver to the hands of the people to whom it means relief from pressing idly in huge sums. Now, let us have a great list of small subscribers, those who are not rich, but feel for the sufferers by the floods. Send in 10 cents, 15 cents, a quarter, to the Post-Dispatch. The smallest sums may save several people from hunger. A cuarter will relieve the need of a whole family for a day.

St. Louis has never had a stronger appeal made to its humanity than this unspoken one that comes from the farmers of the swollen river. The POST-DISPATCH will assure the very smallest contributor to the fund that the mite will carry comfort to some one in distress. Send in the dimes as well as the dollars.

Contributions To-Day.

At a union prayer meeting of the Epworth Leagues of the city held last night at Trinity Methodist Church, prayer was offered for the flood sufferers. At the close it was proposed to take up a collection at the door. Two members were stationed at the door while the members passed out and this morning Mr. W. H. Hammon handed to the Post-Dis-Patch flood fund $9.75 collected there.

About noon she entered my office and advanced to the desk at which I was seated with a loaded revolver in her hand. Without any preliminary she stated that she wanted money right away and demanded a check for $500. She was very impatient, and when I protested she threatened to shoot me unless I wrote the check immediately. I was afraid she would carry out her threat unless I complied, and I simply wrote the check to get a chance to arise from my chair as she stood over me with the weapon in a threatening attitude. I wanted some excuse to get on my feet, and as it seemed to me that she was ready to carry out her threat I drew the check to humor her for the time being. The doctor admitted this morning that he struck Miss Long, but claimed that he did so in defense of his sister-in-law whom she had assaulted. The trouble occurred at his office, he said, and not at her house. She called there with a note from Dr. Campbell of Columbia, Mo., for some books which the doctor had left there upon moving to Columbia and she at once, according to Dr. Abell, attacked his sister-in-law with whom she had had some trouble before. Miss Long being something of a puglist he was compelled to interfere and to knock her down. He denied, however, that he continued beating and kicking her after she was down as reported by the police. He denied also that she had ever been his mistress or that he had ever visited her except in a professional way.

The murder of Louis Brown at Cheltenham ast Monday night is still a mystery, and will probably always remain so, as no effort is being made to clear it up. The Coroner's in the hope that Irvin, the negro whose hat was found near Brown's in the hope that Irvin, the negro whose hat was found near Brown's body, would be captured or the white man who was with him at the railroad station that night would be found, but nothing has been seen of either of them since Brown was killed. The Coroner made an effort to find the engineer of the train that ran over Brown, but has not been successful as yet, although another engineer was found yesterday who saw Brown Monday night. He testified that Brown was drunk and that he came pretty near running over him with his engine. The engineer, whose testimony is still to be given, may be able to clear up one point, namely, whether Brown was standing or lying on the track when the train struck him. The supposition is that he was singged and robbed and that he was then left on the track or was laid there purposely.

The evidence of every witness examined so far, indicates that Brown was sugged and robbed. Police officer Hussey and a couple of other witnesses testified to cuts on his head, forehead and cheek and seemed to have been made by a stone, although Dr. Chambers, who made the post mortem says that these cuts might have been made by the train in running over him. Brown was a negro and a laborer, and it is not probable that any reward will be offered for the arrest of the murderer or murderers.

short address & calling the attention of those present to the great suffering occasioned by the flood. On account of the direful distress prevalent he had called a meeting of citizens and now appealed to all for aid in the present contingency. In order that those present might appreciate how much assistance was required he cailed upon Mr. H. E. Harlow to give an account of what he had personally witnessed.

Mr. Harlow said that he had just returned from Cape Girardeau and had never seen such distress as he witnessed along the river. Thousands of families were absolutely homeless, hundreds were living on the bluffs in improvised tents, and hundreds more were in the woods. Never before at a season of flood had so much suffering resulted, and now if ever was that time for the citizens to open their purses to feed the hungry and clothe the naked.

W. T. Anderson then offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the President of the Merchants' Exchange be authorized to appoint a committee to raise, and distribute, funds for the relief of the flood sufferers.

FOR THE POST-DISPATCH FUND.

Recorder W. A. Hobbs then mounted the rostrum. He stated that he had been authorized by Mr. Pat Short to state that the Liliputians at the Olympic Theatre would to-morrow night give an entertainment for the benefit of the flood sufferers, the money so raised to be donated to the Post-DISPATCH Flood Sufferers' Relief Fund. The storm central yesterday over Lake Michigan has remained nearly stationary, but has greatly diminished in intensity. Fair weather prevails over the district west of the dississippi River, except in Minnesota and Eastern lows, where light rains and occasional anows continue. An area of unusually high pressure is moving outheastward from Montana, where the crest is now above 30.6 inches. This will probably cause cool, fair weather west of the Mississippi for the remainder of this week, and possibly longer. ### THE PLOOD RELIEF MOVEMENT.

The reports of the terrible devastation and suffering caused by the floods in the eighborhood of St. Louis which the Post-DISPATOR has been enabled to present through the work of its flood expeditions. and the prompt appeals it made for means togrelleve the distresses of flood sufferers. have borne good fruit.

The people of St. Louis have awakened to a full sense of their duty towards the thousands of unfortunates deprived of their homes and the necessities of life by the overflow. Subscriptions are pouring in to the Post-Disparch Flood Fund and an army of earnest workers has responded to the call for aid. The subscription blanks which have been distributed by the Post-DISPATCH are being filled with promptness and liberality. The Board of Trade has taken up the work and its charitable organization will co-operate with the POST-DISPATOR in the collection and distribution of relief funds and supplies.

The need of relief, however, is great, and not a local and temporary matter which may be dealt with in a brief time and with limited means. The end of the devastating work of the waters has not yet been reached. Millions of dollars' worth of property has been destroyed and thousands of families rendered destitute along the courses of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers. These families must be provided with the necessities of life until they can find means of providing for themselves, Every cent that can be raised can be put to good use before the effects of the flood disasters have passed. There is room for charitable activity in this great work for every man, woman and child able to lend a helping hand.

A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

The destruction wrought by the flood waters of the Mississippi Valley has reached the measure of a national

Under ordinary circumstances the overflow which nearly wrecked Sloux City, drowning about fifty people and destroying $2,000,000 worth of property would have concentrated the attention of the country upon that disaster, but at present it is a mere local detail of a vast accumulation of disasters which extends over almost the entire length of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and their principal affluents. The junction of the high waters of the two rivers a few miles above St. Louis has made this territory the center of devastation, but it is not by any means confined to it. The submerged districts dot the banks of the great rivers. of acres of cultivated farming lands are under water and thousands of families have been deprived of shelter and means of subsistence.

No estimate can now be placed upon the losses caused by the floods, nor can the extunate dwellers in the submerged districts be imagined. The situation is likely to become worse before it is better. All that can be definitely stated now is that there is need of generous and immediate relief to prevent not only bitter suffering but actual death by exposure and starvation to thousands of destitute flood victims. We are confident that the appeals for aid in behalf of the flood sufferers will meet with liberal response from the people in every part of the country. The generosity which has met with rich provision the needs of sufferers in foreign lands will respond to the call of distress in the Mississippi Valley. The movement inaugurated by the Post-DISPATCH and heartily taken up by the people of St. Louis should be and undoubtedly will be joined in by other cities. All that is necessary is to apprise them that their co-operation is necessary. The time to give the signal of distress has ar-

WHETHER the Republicans nominate HARRISON or BLAINE it will be done with the understanding that the man who beat BLAINE in 1884, and was beaten by HARRIson in 1888, will again head the Democratic ticket. So a nomination of either BLAINE or HARRISON will be a challenge to the Democrats to make a comparison of CLEVE-LAND's administration with that of HAR-RISON and BLAINE the test of party slaims. Two years ago such a test insured a tidal wave victory for the Democrats. But the tidal wave majority it gave them in Congress has since followed the Reed Congress into the Billion Dollar business, and the probable result of a contest between CLEVE-LAND and either BLAINE or HARRISON now is a matter of doubt to the most hopeful prognosticators of both sides. Both sides are eagerly looking for a stronger man than either has in sight at present.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: As I passed home on Sabbath last, along Grand avenue, I was pained to see a very conspicuous notice, on a saloon, that on the next Sabbath, May 22, there would be a grand and under the auspices of the Drummers' Association of St. Louis. The drummers that I know are nice gentiemen and those of the railroad companies that I have corresponded with have uniformly shown me every courtesy, and some of them have done me favors that I appreciate highly, and cannot forget, and hence my sincere and deep sorrow on noting the announcement to which I have referred. This shameful deserration of God's holy day will be degrading and ruinous to the individual and the association and the company. I do not make this statement rashly or censoriously, but with the deepest sorrow. I know this to be true, and hence I hope all concerned and under the auspices of the Drummers not make this statement rashly or censorious ly, but with the deepest sorrow. It know this to be true, and hence I hope all concerned will heed the kind admonition of a friend, and abandon, for all the future, everything of this kind. Note this statement: When our Sabbath day, as a holy day, is gone in this land of ours, then we will have nothing left that any good citizen could appreciate or enjoy. Open saloons, racing, base ball playing and everything of this character tends directly to degrade and to heathenize our land.

The Law Allows It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I went down to De Soto from St. Louis and had baggage which was not put on the same train with me. I was going out on to a farm train with me. I was going out on to a farm and had a wagon to take me along. Next day being Christmas I knew I cruid not get my baggage, so I put it off till the day after, and when I went down to get it it was a few hours over the twenty-four hours allowed and the agent charged me 25 cents per piece. I remonstrated at this robbery and he produced a law of the road showing he was authorized to do so. Now, if that is not a downright robbery of a working man nothing is. Again I lately came up to St. Louis to work and had a box with tools and working clothes. They would not cheek it on my ticket, but made me pay freight on it to get it up. That's the Iron Mountain road for you. It's a road that skins a workingman every time. 3425 Olive street.

Our City Dairy Farms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: They are scattered along all the roads leading out of the city, and the typical one is an mmense plat of land, containing one-fourth of an acre, more or less, with not one sprig of grass or clover, or any other green thing of grass or clover, or any other green thing to be seen; not even a green label from a tomato can. This cow-prison is very muddy, and is inhabitated by from six to eight cows. At least one or more of these are dead and have been for several days. And what is still worse, the dead are allowed to remain there in the same miserable pen with those that still live, while the living look leaner and more miserable than those seen in Pharach's dream, and with sad and longing faces they gaze on their dead friends as if they too would their quietus make. make.
Yet the owners go through the streets in a nicely painted milk wagon labeled "Country Farm Dairy." or some such nice name, and thus practice an imposition on the people.

Misses Alexander and Wheat stepped upon the log, and when midway of the stream Misse Wheat's foot slipped. She fell into the creek, pulling Miss Alexander after her. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—The charges made by the Chilian, Dr. Trumbull, agains Minister Patrick Egan and Consul Me-Creery, now on file at the State Department cannot fail of bringing about an investigation of the actions of our representatives in Chilb during the recent revolution. The story, as sentative Breckinridge of Kentucky, was fully telegraped to last SUNDAY'S POST-DIS

FAICH.

It is held by prominent leaders in the Honse that this investigation ought not to be left solely to the State Department. This view of the matter, it may be explained, carries with if no reflections on Secretary Blaine. Those who hold to it do not mean to charge, or even insinuate, that Mr. Haine would purposely shield McCreery, but it is pointed out that, in the nature of things Mr. Blaine could not direct the investigation in person, and that McCreery and Egan have heretofore had no trouble in hoodwinking the State Department at their own sweet will and in their own shrewd way. It would be wise, therefore, it is believed by more than one prominent Democrat, for the House to take the matter in band and use its full power to uncover whatever there may be that is discreditable in the conduct of both acfreery and Minister Egan in Chill, and then give its attention to Admiral Brown and several of his subordinate officers.

It has already been suggested that a Congressional investigation would be confronted with many difficulties. A special committee appointed to collect the facts in the case would, of course, have no authority in Chili, even if it were sent to that country. It could not send for persons or papers or compel the attendance of witnesses. It would be wholly at the mercy of those who possess the incriminating evidence. If they should choose to

There is reason to believe, however, that an energetic effort by Congress to fathom the whole matter would be assisted by prominent and reputable Chilians to the utmost of their ability, and that an investigation would their ability, and that an investigation would fully repay the effort made.

Then there is this proposition submitted: Should not an investigation be ordered by Congress, regardless of all difficulties in the way? It is argued that the good name of the Government is at stake. Her representatives abroad are charged with having disgraced their places, and it is a known fact that because of the full belief of the truth of the charge those representatives are now personsen on grate to the country to which they are accredited. Ought Congress, it is asked, ito hesitate in these circumstances? Ought it not rather to take cognizance of the matter at once and summon the accused before it?

The Supply of Coal and Milk Getting

A BREAK IN THE VANDALIA CUTS OFF ANOTHER SOURCE.

Excited Crowds Besiege the Coal Office To-Day and Beg and Implore the Deal ers to Help Them Cut-The Milk Comnies of the City Charter a Steamer

Tre-Day.

The prospect of a coal famine is serious today and from all indications the most trouble that could be expected from a non-supply of coal may be realised before to-morrow morning. Not a pound of coal has been received in St. Louis to-day and some of the largest coal consumers have less than half a wagon load on hand. For the last five days the St. Louis coal consumers have been supplied by the Illinois miners, the fuel being brought over via the Vandalia route.
It was rumored this morning that the Vandalia roan had given away and the supply had been entirely cut off, as not a pound of coal has reached St. Louis over the O. & M.
this week, the supply coming over this route being entirely consumed by the railroad engines. The city consumers who have been in the habit of living from hand to mouth and who failed to receive their daily supply this morning, rushed madiy into the coal offices, swearing and excited, demanding why their usual supply had not been delivered.

CAPT. M'CULLOCH EXCITED.

At 9:20 this morning Capt. McCulloch of the syndicate street railroad lines jumped into the elevator at the Laclede Building, and upon reaching the offices of the Consolidated Coal Co., with blood in his eyes, inquired in a very angry tone of voice why his sapply of coal had been shut off. "Why, man alive," he exclaimed in a very excited manner, "if we don't get more coal before night we will have to shut down; this thing is assuming a very serious aspect with us," Promise was made to deliver him the next load, when in rushed another customer with his hair standing on end demanding fuel, and he wanted it then and there, During the half an hour a Post-Dispatch reporter was compelled to wait to have a conference with Manager Simpson a continual stream of representatives poured in and out of the office to learn the situation and to ascertain how much longer they could hold out.

When asked regarding what the prospects for a coal famine were as far as his firm was concerned, Mr. E. C. Donk of the firm of Donk & Bros. said: "The Post-Dispatch gave a very accurate description of the present situation yesterday, and it is about the same to-day only it is a great deal worse. We can't get a pound from over the river, not a pound, and last night we telegraphed for all the coal we can purchase in Western Missouri and we expect some of it to arrive before the worst comes, but to save our customers it will just have to commence to arrive in the morning. Of course it will be dear and customers will have to commence to arrive in the morning. Of course it will be dear and customers will have to pay high for it. I can't say what the price will be. I understand that the Vandalia has given away, and if that report be substantiated I don't know what will be the consequences, but everything in St. Louis will have to be shut down unless we can receive a large supply from Southwest Missouri."

Inquiry being made at all the leading coal dealers of the city, the situation was practically the same, not a load being on hund, very poor prospects of receiving any from the East Side, and everyone looking to Southwest Missouri to furnish the supply.

The scenes around the coal offices to-day receiving any from the East side, and everyone looking to Southwest Missourit to furnish the supply.

The scenes around the coal offices to-day indicate that the consumers are many and anxious. "We have enough to make us excited," said a large consumer to a Post-Distatch reporter. "Here we are with only a day's supply on hand, and not a wagon-load being delivered to us, and very little prospects of receiving any. I will venture the assertion that if coal does not commence to roil into the city by to-morrow quite a number of the largest works in St. Louis."

In the city by to-morrow quite a number of the largest works in St. Louis will be shut down and hundreds of employes will be thrown out of work until the high water subsides, when the railroads will once more have an opportunity to get trains into St. Louis."

Mr. J. C. Simpson, the general manager of the Consolidated Co., did not appear to view the situation in a very siarming manner, although he admitted that the company was powerless to supply the demand that was being made upon it, however it had, so far, kept the steam consumers supplied in a certain measure, and he was of the opinion that the company could furnish enough fuel to prevent the closing down of the large fac-

Milk Supply Almost Cut Off. The milk consumers of the city were cut down in their supply this morning for the

Louis Dairy Co. to day by a Posrfor end of the st. Louis made and the supply from that source has been cut of since last night. Our customers have all been supplied this morning, but they never received anything like their usual supply, and will not until we can receive our milk from Illinois, and no telling when that will be; not until the railroad tracks have been reconstructed, at any rate. We will endeavor to do the best we can by our customers, but of course will not have a drop to spare except for immediate family use. The same condition of affairs exists at the Union Dairy Co. and as these two dairies are principally the source of the St. Louis supply nearly every family in the city will be compelled to be satisfied with what they receive, and if the high water continues ten days longer, it is highly probable that the St. Louis milk supply will be entirely ex hausted. The St. Louis Dairy Co. and the Union Dairy Co. have jointly chartered the stammer White Engle and it is making two trips a day to Alton to bring in all the milk that is received at that point from the various roads, but as the quantity received from this source is not sufficient to supply the demand, the true situation of the approaching milk familae can readily be understood, considering that this is the only source by which the city can be supplied. The steamer Spread Engle brought in about 1,000 galions for the two large dairies this morning, and the White Engle will bring in another load to-night." ers will be cut down to a very scant

Their Homes Destroyed.

Mrs. Appleman's residence, a one-story frame building, at 8807 Clarence avenue, was frame building, at $807 Clarence avenue, was destroyed by fire early this morning with its contents, and the adjoining residences of James H. Campbell and John Fois, also one-story frames, were badly damaged. Mrs. Appleman and children were away from home, and nothing was saved from the house and the origin of the fire could hot be learned. The families next door succeeded in saving their furniture. Mr. Campbell's loss was about $400, as was also that of Mr. Fois, while Mrs. Appleman lost about $1,000.

His First Offense.

Several members of the Rickert family, who reside at 1509 Billon street, were in the First District Police Court to-day, Edward as a defendant and his parents and brothers and sisters as witnesses against him. Jeff Storts prosecuted and his brother Brock, defended him. The testimony showed that Ed had came home drunk yesterday evening, and raised a disturbance because his supper was not ready. As he had never been arrested before, Juage Morris let him off with a fine of $5.

SEVERAL OF THOSE REPORTED KILLED DISCOVERED ALIVE.

All Telegraphic News Reports Calamit and Suffering - Twenty-Five People Said to Have Drowned in Arkansas-Many Perched in Trees for Safety-The Highest Point Believed To Have Been

SIOUX CITY, Io., May 20 .- The total amoun of damage by flood has not been overestimated, although some amounts have been grossly exaggerated by sensational correspondents. Damage, including that to railroads in Floyd Valley for thirty miles, will be at least $1,500,000. Work of clearing up is being pushed and nearly a mile of streets in the flooded district have been cleared at nightfall. The city is still without gas or electricity. Railroads put men to work to-day to clear tracks and switch yards agreeing to pay $1.25 per day. After working a short ne the men struck for $1,50. All acc and the men went to work again. In about an hour they struck a second time, demanding $2. Only the Milwaukee company acceded. most of the men quit. In the stock yards a gang of men is employed at clearing

It was reported to-night that Nellie West, who was swept from her mother's arms and thought to be drowned, was found on a pile of debris near the packing houses alive, but

Communication has at last been opened up with the deluged city. Last night, for the first time since the flood broke loose, a train reached here, the Chicago, Minneapolis & Omaha being the first to accomplish the feat. The trip was undertaken only because of the protests of the belated passengers. A repair train was sent ahead, and the road was practically built up ahead of the passenger coaches. At every mile washouts were encountered, and when Mapleton was reached the train ran through large lakes sufficient for a yacht. The Maple River had overflowed its banks and for miles around the farms lay under from three to ten feet of Communication has at last been opened un the farms lay under from three to ten feet of water. When the Little Sloux was reached the situation was found to be extremely dan-gerous. The road here runs over a long tres-tle across the bottoms that adjoin it. The trestie is six feet above the bottoms, but the water was rushing tumultuously against the tracks. A wind fifty miles an hour was blow ing, and when it swept over a lake made by the flood on either side it tossed up breakers ocean-like. Half way out the engineer ocean-like. Half way out the engineer haited. The conductor got out and signaled him ahead. He went on through the flood. The passengers could feel the trestle quaking. Inis passed, the next danger point was the bridge over the river, which was under the waves of the turbulent river. The train, however, ran over it in safety and reached sloux City five hours after leaving Manilia.

Several of those reported drowned yesterday have since been found. The death list, however, is of such magnitude that there is hardly a home in the city that is not mourning the loss of a relative or friend.

The following is believed to be a correct list of the persons drowned by the floods so far as known at the present time:

A. G. Anderson.

Several children and infants are also reported by an eye-witness to have perished. It is believed that more bodies will be discovered when the debris is cleared away at the mouth of the Floyd River.

bridges and their track which parallels the Northern over its disastrous twenty miles is also badly damaged. The terminals of all the reads from the East were on the low ground in this city and all lose heavily. Many of the cattle supposed to have been drowned are being found across the Missouri in Nebraska, where they were swept out of the mouth of the Floyd. The local organization for the relief of the sufferers is proving adequate for all demands. Great headway was made yesterday in the re-establishment of the natural conditions. Employment is offered to all who will work and a few days of fine weather will revive trade and public spirit. There has, however, been a considerable fail of snow this morning. Many offers of assistance have been received from the outside, but sloux City has made adequate preparation to meet the requirements and prefers to do it alone.

IN MISSOURI.

A RAY OF HOPE AT KANSAS CITY-OVER THE STATE.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 20 .- A ray of hor broke through the clouds of despair that have been settling for days over the flood sufferers. The Missouri and Kaw rivers are nearly stationary and a further rise of only a few inches is anticipated. Between midnight last night and 10 a. m. to-day the rise in the Missouri was only about four inches and a further rise of less than three inches is expected during the day. The Signal Service Observer this morning reported that the water marked a stage of 24.8 feet above low water mark, and was rising very slightly. The Kaw is now stationary and can rise only as it is pushed back at its mouth by the rising Missouri. But little damage during the night and this morning was added to that already done by the floods. The bottoms in the northeast section of this county subsided a little further under the encroaching waters. The basements of the Crescent and Star grain elevators, located there, have been flooded. The Martin-Perrin distillery shut down this morning and put its men at work building an embankment around its works. Its cattle and feeding sheds are all flooded. Further east the Missouri has backed up the Blue River until the latter's waters have gone out of their banks and have driven many people from their homes.

Harlem, across the river from here, is all under water, and that town now has not a single inhabitant. The Burlington's bridge, which connects Harlem and Kansas City, this morning looks like a Noah's ark. It is crowded with animals of all descriptions, men, women and children, horses, cattle, hogs and sheep, all driven there by the flood. Many of the people of Harlen have taken up their abode on the bridge approach and will remain there until the water in their homes subsides.

In the west bottoms of Kansas City, Mo., the water has percolated through the soil and has filled the cellars of many houses and residences. The water is still within its banks there and probably will not rise above them so that these bottoms will not be them so that these bottoms will not be flooded.

In Kansas City, Kan., the cellars of the packing houses are still flooded and most of them are still shut down pending the withdrawal of the waters. In Argentine the flood is at a standstill; the people who were driven from their houses are patiently waiting for the waters to subside. Hundreds of them are camped on the bluffs overlooking the town. The districts of Armourdale, which were flooded by the water backing up through the sewers, are still inundated and will not be relieved until the Kaw and the Missouri fall below the sewers' outlet. Altogether the prospects of the floods' subsiding are encouraging. They are that the rivers will rise about 2h inches during the day, and will then remain stationary for twenty-four hours, and will then begin to fall.

AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Mo., May 20 .- The great Missouri fell several inches yesterday at this crops and cattle of the farmers through the surrounding country. The farmers of Laba-die Bottom, a few miles east of here, have suffered greatly, having lost nearly all they possessed. The following named persons are among the sufferers in Labadie Bottom: samuel Water and family, Charles Thee and family, Rudolph Thee and family, Jacob Vogt and family, John Waterboldt and family, Jacob Adle and family, Jacob Adle and family, Simon Shelton and family, Miller Brothers, Tom Sehlton and family, Simon Shelton and family, Albert Hinkle and family, George Buries and family, Daniel Perkins and family, George Buries and family, Daniel Perkins and family, Green Hinkle and family and John Clark and family. The majority of the above are camping on the bluffs and some are suffering for the necessaries of life.

A big slide occurred Tuesday night on the Missouri Pacific road and delayed the through trains several hours. Another occurred last night just this side of New Haven. It is feared that as the water recedes the railroad bed will sink. Because of this all trains are not allowed to go at a greater speed than twenty-five miles per hour between Labadie and New Haven. The city water works company has had rocks and gravel necked around the edges of the reserpossessed. The following named persons are hour between Labadie and New Haven. The city water works company has had rocks and gravel packed around the edges of the reservoir as it was being washed badly by the waves from the river. The water that seeped through the foundation into the engine-room has been pumped out thus enabling water to be pumped into the city stand pipe. Some fear that when the water withdraws from around the Water-works the foundations will settle and thus cause the building to collapse. Mr. E. Glippin, engineer, has moved his family and furniture from the building, proving that the building is in danger. The ferryhoat May Bryan went up the river yesterday and brought down on her barge 1,500 sacks of wheat.

FIRST TRAIN SINCE FRIDAY. DE Soro, Mo., May 20.—The washouts on the Iron Mountain road have been repaired and the Texas express, No. 51, will go over the main line to Poplar Bluff to-day. This will be the first train over this section of road since Friday night.

LOSSES IN ALEXANDER COUNTY—TWO PLOATERS SEEN.

CAIRO, Ill., May 20 .- In Alexander County nione over two thousand acres of wheat has been utterly ruined. The loss in stock has been very large, indeed, and stock can be seen swimming in the flooded districts where once were rich farms.

Come and ride to the ore or less late since the big flood has covmore or less late since the big flood has covered the American bottom. Between here and St. Louis the roadbed of the Litchfield, Carroiton & Western Railroad has become a damaged by the continued rain that the passenger train was ditched twice between here and Litchfield since yesterday. No one was seriously injured, All mails are a day late on arrival, St. Louis papers are twenty-four hours old when received. The little town of Columbina, twenty-five miles west of here on the Illinois River bank, is almost totally submerged and all that marks the spot of what was once a fisherman's village is some large two-story frame houses. The river is reported to be on a standstill from four to six feet deep on a level.

FAIRBURY, Ill., May 20. -Yesterday the rain fall was heavier than it has been at any period since the present spell of bad weather set in. East of here the damage is serious, all the lowlands being under water and the crops ruined.

IN TREES. PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 20 .- The river has undoubtedly reached the highest mark ever known by any inhabitant of this city. The gauge is 26.8 and the waters continue to rise. Great damage is being done to property in the south and east ends of the city, Many houses have been inundated and washed from their foundations. Henry Culpepper from their foundations. Henry Culpepper says his plantation across the river has had several houses swept away, to say nothing of the damage done to his crop by the overnow. The old Frenchtown levee has given way four miles below here, and the water is sweeping across most of the fine plantations in this county adjoining the river. Among the planters living here who are sufferers are: Messrs. Leo Andrews. Floyd Jarvis, Henry Culpepper, M. L. Bell, Gabe Meyers and F. B. Scull. The river continues to rise at this point and now almost the entire lowland country is under water. Plantations that the water never reached before are now covered. The eastern part of this city is under water. All railroad communication is cut off, a thing never heard of before. The Mayor of Pine Bluff received telegrams this morning asking that steamboats be sent to the assistance or people living on what is known as Hensleylisland, about thirty miles above here. The water has covered the entire island and the people have rees at that point. Great distress exists on all sides. Planters who had good credit and could get whatever they needed before the high water, are now unable to get supplies rad goods. The merchants claim that the crops are ruined and that they will be unable to pay. The banks here no longer take paper from planters and an era of extreme distress has reached this vicinity.

Gen. H. King White wired United States Senator J. K. Jones at Washington this morning to request the Secretary of War to order the Government steamer Wichita at this port to be placed at the disposal of the local Relief Committee.

TWENTY-FIVE REPORTED DROWNED.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 20.—The steamer Anna B. Adams, leaded with provisions, left this morning for Redfield. Twenty-five persons were reported drowned there last night. Over 200 more are on the river banks surrounded by water and the bank continually caving in. The river is still rising here. The pumps at the water-works are sumerged and the city is without water. Many buildings in North Little Book floated away during the night. The damage is estimated at over $50,000.

Thousand of acres of cotton and corn are overflowed between here and the mouth of the Mulberry. The 'Frisco bridge at Van Buren is ten feet above water and safe. DAM BROKEN AT ST. CLOUD-HEAVY RAINS RE-PORTED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 20 .- It was rumored here at an early hour this morning that one of the dams sixty miles up the Mississippi had burst, and that the rush of water had caused the St. Cloud dam to be totally destroyed. At the Bonemian Flats, the low int in the city, the water had bee gradually rising, and last night the people wing within three blocks were ordered to quit their residences. A later report states that there had been another break in the St. Cloud dam, but no confirmation of the fact

At this point the river has commenced a more rapid rise since noon yesterday, and it is now coming up at the rate of half an inch per hour. A rise of two feet is recorded since noon yesterday. It can come up four feet more, however, before any damage can be done. MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 20 .- Advices from rthern and North western Wisconsin are to the effect that the heaviest rainfall in years occurred yesterday, turning into a furious snow storm. At Cumberland, after raining continuously for forty-eight hours, snow began to fall and the ground is now covered with about two inches.

A DAKOTA BLIZZARD. Fargo, N. D., May 20.—Veritable blizzard raging here to-day. Light snow fell all night. Ground frozen up and crops will suffer great Seeding was about half done when las rain storm set in a week ago. Since then nothing could be done, and now it looks as though the whole spring work was in vain. Trains are delayed on account of washouts east of here. Red River valley has not fared so badly as the country east and south of here. Reports from Minnesota show everything flooded.

STILL RISING.

KEOKUK, Io., May 20.—No casualties are reported from the flooded Egyptian Levee District. The break was anticipated and the inhabitants reached places of safety. The bot tom lands are covered by a sea of water eight miles wide. The Des Moines River is fail-ing very slowly from the mouth as far ing very slowly from the mouth as far as Ottumwa, but a further rise is anticipated from above. The river now stands at 13 feet 9 inches above low water mark and is still rising. All passenger trains on the Keokuk & Western are abandoned and on the St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern, between here and Alexandria.

BICYCLE MESSENGERS.

Progress of the Test Journey-Difficulties

CLEVELAND, O., May 20 .- A crowd of inter ested people gathered at the Wheelmen's arrival of Messrs, Joseph and John Lindsey in the bicycle trip from Chicago to New York They took up the message at West Cleveland. The messengers should have arrived at 12 o'clock midnight, but were six and a half hours behind schedule time. The roads between the third and fourth divisions are in a terrible condition and much of the way the wheelmen were compelled to dismount and lead their wheels through the mud. During the night they encountered a pouring rain, but kept steadily on. At 5:53 a. m., Johason appeared in view, pushing his wheel to its utmost speed. Cheer after cheer greeted him as he darhed up to the club quarters. Ernest Johnson was ready mounted and, without an instant's pause, threw the strap over his shoulder, and with his companion dashed away to Lakeview. It was just 5:54:80 o'clock when he started. The pavement is in fine condition and the run to Lakeview was quickly made where the next relay was in waiting to take up the trip.

The course through Cleveland lay up superior street to Bond, thence over to Euclid avenue, after which they took a direct line to Lakeview. At Wilson avenue there was a larger crowd than down town, and again cheers went up. At this point a stranger with a running horse met them and a pretty race ensued for the rest of the distance. E. C. Johnson, the message bearer, was in the lead and the horse could not head him, although they were together. When they dashed into Lakeview it was 6:112-5 o'clock standard time. The four and one half miles had been made in seventeen minutes and 2-5 seconds. At Lakeview the message was received by J. E. Ellenberger and he dashed away to Wickliffe. He was accompanied by F. Williams and R. Young.

Between Elyra and Cleveland twenty-six minutes of the lost time was made up. H. S. Fallansbes made the remarkable record of nineteen minutes between Elyra and Ridgeville, which is a distance of five and a half miles. B. A. Bigden took the message from Fallensbee and delivered it to E. J. Doughet of Rocky River. From there it was borne to West Cleveland by S. F. Vaupel, who was accompanied by Will Hoyt and F. M. Bauer. Messages were received in this city all night and many of the cyclists did not sleep at all. Thomas Rowe, manager of the relay; F. Ed Spooner, a correspondent, and E. Bode of Chicago arrived in Cleveland at 9:20 Thursday night from Toledo and left on the 1:40 o'clo ead their wheels through the mud. During FORT DODGE, Io., May 20.—The river is still failing and apparently all danger is over, although the weather is threatening another storm.

To-morrow morning at 9:20 o'clock carriages and covered wagons will leave the offices of S. F. & T. A. Scott, No. 116 North Eighth street, and J. T. Donovan & Co., No. 518 North Sixth street, for Tyler Place, where absurd and inequitable system of taxation. and the man who had built a house on or otherwise improved his ground would not be muicted for his enterprise and industry. The unearned increment would no longer be possible and speculators would find it no longer profitably to hold big tracts for a rise in value. This would stimulate building, reduce rent and in every way add to the prosperity of the community."

An international congress of single tax people will be held in Chicago next year under the auspices of the World's Fair Auxiliary. Louis Post of New York, Chairman of the National Committee of the Single Tax League of the United States, is chairman of the General Committee of Arrangements. President Bonney of the World's Fair auxiliary has agreed to assign a date for the proposed congress. Delegates are now expected from every part of the world, especially from England, Russia, France, Denmark, Australia, New Zealand and Japan. The sessions will continue for three days and two or three public meetings will be held.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20 .- The results of the convention in Georgia and that in Virginia have led to more sanguine of Mr. Cleveland to calculate his strength at Chicago. Gen. Tracey, a warm supporter of Mr. Cleveland, has tabulated the returns from the State Conventions held up to date and has figured on the delegations yet to be selected. On the basis of his totals and his speculations as to the action of the States vet to be heard from, he declares with much emphasis that the ex-President will receive ballot. Of the conventions already held he gives Cleveland 415 and the instructed or more confident that Mr. Blaine will accept the nomination. While after repeated efforts they have failed to get any positive statement from him that he will accept, the fact that he has not checked them by private assurance that they have made an erroneous assumption, considered together with the peculiar non-committal character of his replies, convince them that he is going to accept the nomination. Two members of the House called on Mr. Blaine this morning to talk the matter over with him. They said they did not come to ask him to commit himself, but merely wanted to tell him that nine-tenths of the party favored his nomination, and thought that the welfare of the party depended upon his acceptance. They urge him to say nothing meanwhile, but to accept the nomination if pressed upon him by the convention. Members and Senators who are pressing the candidacy upon Mr. Blaine, express great satisfaction over an impression they have, that Mrs. Blaine agrees with them that her husband should accept.

THE ALGER CONFERENCE.

CLARKSON IS TO SOUND BLAINE AS TO HIS IN TENTIONS. DETROIT, Mich., May 20 .- Gen. Alger this forning admits the famous conference at his nouse which resulted in Gen. Clarkson agree ing to see Mr. Blaine at once and securing from him, once for all, a statement of his intentions regarding the presidency. He will be asked to say whether there are any conditions which can arise under which he would accept the nomination. He declared, however, that there was nothing said about him accepting second place on the ticket with Blaine.

"Was it agreed to unite all the opposition to Mr. Harrison upon you in case hr. Blaine still refused to be a candidate?"

"Did we agree, you ask?"

"There was no agreement whatever ing to see Mr. Blaine at once

TANET COUNTY LYNCHERS. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 21.—The habeas corpus proceedings in the Circuit Court this norning against the Taney County lyncher vas of short duration, as the arrests have been made upon warrants issued from Greene County. Immediately upon release the prisoners were all arrested on warrants from Taney County, for which place the authorities started with them. DIFFICULTIES OF EXTRADITION. COPENHAGEN, May 20.—Detective Sergeants Heidelberg and Reilly of the New York police orce, who were sent to take back to the United States Oscar Cremer and Oscar Bjorkman, alias James L. Detective Heidelberg went to Berlin to arrange for the passage of the prisoners through Holstein to Hamburg, where it was intended to embark on the steamer Fuerst Bismarck for New York, but the German laws are apt to make trouble for the detectives, and they will probably be detained until the end of next week in straightening out matters so that they can take their prisoners through Germany without losing them through a writ of habeas corpus. It is this fear that prevents the detectives from returning by way of England. The prisoners are completely broken up, and say they are willing to return to New York to stand trial. We are carrying things with a high hand, and we don't deny it. Reason for it is very simple. Carlsbad Sprudel Salts are not a manufactured article, compounded by quacks and imitators, but are Nature's product brought over from Carlsbad. Emperors, Kings, and Statesmen have to Carlsbad seeking renewed health. It has often been said that the stomach is the seat of all disease. If that is true, Carlsbad Sprudel Salts will remove every symptom of disease, because it is the first tonic for disordered stomach. Try it to-day. Eisner & Mendelson Co., N.Y., Sole Agenta:

This property embraces two old dwellings changed for offices and tenements, the offices being occupied by Cornet & Zeibig and McCormack, Kligen & Rule. The office occupied by Cornet & Zeibig, it is said, will be vacated July 1 when the firm will move into the new! Wainwright Building and occupy the lower foor office at the corner of the alley on Seventh street.

Another large sale was that of the premises No. 110 North Ninth street for $22,000 to Milo T. Bogard, who occupies the property. This transaction was negotiated by the Florida, Hammett & Croswhite Real Estate Co., the grantor being Mrs. Amanda Deizell, who bought the property a few days since and has realized a profit of $1,000 on the transfer of it to Mr. Bogard.

The Tyler place auction to morrow is attracting; a great deal of attention just at present, and everything indicates that the sale will be a big success. Investors readily see that the sale of so much proper on the one day will be sure to lower the actual cash value of the property, and will give them an opportunity for investment such as will not be secured again. Such an admirable residence section will undoubtedly grow to be the most desirable on the South Side, and a quick advance in present prices is sure to come. Owing to the large amount of property to be sold the sale will probably last all day.

TRIAL BY NEWSPAPER.

The Plan Adopted by Liberals of Canada Proves Successful. MONTREAL, May 21 .- The system of trial by ewspaper, which the Liberal party has inaugurated in Canada promises to be a decided uccess. The Liberals have been driven to this novel mode of trial as a last resort, on account of the action of the Tory Government at Ottawa in shieldinglits corrupt mem-bers from the attacks of those who wish to purify Canadian public life. Some fac simile letters have been published by the Liberal press which afford very damning testimony in support of the charge that Sir Adolphe Caron took $100,000 out of the pockets of the people for the purpose of bribing twenty-two constituencis in the Province of Quebec. A large number of other fac similes of Sir Adolphe's letters are yet to pe printed. No one who has seen those which for the Quebec Province. Fac-similes of letters of Sir Hector to McGreevy, asking him for money for various political friends and agents during the electoral contest of that year, together with vouchers and receipts, have just been published in the Toronto Globe, and reproduced in the Montreal Heraid and other Liberal papers throughout the Dominion, proving beyond a possibility of doubt that he had freely used that fund. Sir Hector's return of the expenses of his election for Three Rivers in 1887, drawn up in accordance with the law, stated that they amounted to $917. The facsimilees prove that $15, 150 was really spent, and that McGreevy furnished the money at $ir Hector's request. Few will disagree with the Globe when it says: "It is a terrible commentary on the state of public morality in Canada that the majority in Parliament should refuse to allow a proper investigation of these affairs—that it should be base enough to multilate some of the charges preferred by a Liberal member from his place in the House and to wholly eliminate the most important one of all, that, namely, which would have shown how the constituencies were bribed individually and collectively by the cutlags now being exposed in these columns. The peginry which has been committed by men in high station in the attempt to hide the facts is another shocking evidence of moral decay at the top."

be printed. No one who has seen those which have been published can entertain a doubt as to the Postmaster-General's guilt. The very fact that Sir John Thompson refused to a point a parliamentary committee of investigation was of itself an admission that there are some titons in the House of Commons, says that he will not go before the partisan royal commissions which Sir Adolphe and his colleagues in the cabinet are about to appoint. "Why should I go before the partisan royal commissions which Sir Adolphe and his colleagues in the cabinet are about to appoint. "Why should I go before them?" he said a few days, a go. "The charges which Sir Adolphe and Sir John have cooked up for inquiry are not mine. I can prove the truth of every word of those that I read in the House, and I will prove them, too, in the columns of the press."

Another result of this new method of punishing political corruptionists is the conviction of Sir Hector Longevin of perjury. In his evidence before the Parliamentary Committee which inquired mit of the boodling charges made against him last year, he solemnly swore that he had never handled at the Toronto Globe calls it—of 1887 for his own election. charge of boodling, for alleged participation in which Count Mercier was dismissed from office. If ex-Premier Mercier had been tried by a criminal court for his share in that transaction—of which he really knew nothing at all—he would, of conree, have also been acquitted. After his dismissel from office, evidence of boodling in another direction was discovered. But the fact remains that he was driven from office on an accusation for which there was an foundation, and that the constitution was grossly violated in order to compass his downfall.

A bill of some interest to the Masonic fraternity has been introduced in the Ottawa Parliament. Its object is to amend chapter if of the Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada, rejecting "seditious and unlawful oaths." The original ect legalized the existence in Canada of Masonic lodges constituted or warranted by the Grand Lodge of England. When the Grand Lodge of Canada was formed the provisions of the statute were made applicable to that body, but as every member of the craft in the Deminion Knows, the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Canada is confined to the Province of Ontario, The bill is intended to put at rest all doubts as to the legal supremacy of the Grand Lodge of Canada. In order to accomplish this end it is proposed to change the Grand Lodge of Canada. In order to accomplish this end it is proposed to change the words "of Canada" to "in Canada." An instance of the hypocrisy of the Tory Government st. Ottawa, on the question of reciprocity with the United States occurred the other night. Everybody, save the blind political partizans who support the present administration, knows that the recent visit of three of the Canadian cabinet ministers to Washington was a sham and a fraud, and was undertaken simply in order to bamboosle the electorate into belleving that the present government really desire to conclude a treaty with the great Republic which would give our farmers and arrigans the benefit of the natural market for their products. Mr. Dalion McCarthy, Q

Orangemen, moved a resolution proposing the appointment of a Canadian diplomatic agent at Washington. In view of the interests which his country has at stake in the promotion of good will and harmonious relations with the United States. The Government dared not oppose the resolution and so they resorted to the mean and discreditable expedient of adjourning the debate, in the hope of placing it in such a position that it cannot be further discussed this session. Had such a proposition been made by a Liberal, all the citra-loyal supporters of the Government in and out of Parliament would have repeated the old charges of treason, annexation, sedition, etc., avainst the Liberal party. But it was a prominent ultra-loyalist who proposed it, and it was backed up with sensible and earnest speeches by several other prominet ultra-loyalists, and the only thing that was left to Sty John Thompson was to praise the resolution in hypocritical terms and to condemn it in the next breath, sincerely, because he thought

Edward Parker Deacon On Trial for Murdering M. Abeille.

NICE, France, May 20.—The trial of Edward Farker Deacon, who is charged with man-slaughter for the killing of M. Abeille, opened to-day before the Assize Court of the Alpes Maritimes. The court room is a small oblong hall, more like a corridor than the place of holding of a court of justice in a populous district. The room might hold $50 persons if it was used to its fullest capacity. persons if it was used to its fullest capacity. At an early hour the slum like alley leading to the Palais de Justice presented a considerably livelier appearance than usual. The case has naturally excited the greatest interest among all classes of inhabitants, as many French newspapers have taken occasion to attack Mr. Deacon solely because he is an American. A large crowd of the residents of Nice gathered about the Palais de Justice, while the doors leading to the court recomof Nice gathered about the Palais de Justice, while the doors leading to the court-room were blocked by those who had been lucky enough to secure tickets of admission. These tickets were all at the disposal of the President of the court, and the demand for them for a long time past, in fact ever since the date of the trial has been fixed, has been something extraordinary. The French journalists were particularly anxious to be present to hear and report the proceedings, and a large number of them occupied seats at a table between the seats where the accused and his counsel sat and the jury-box. Many representatives of foreign newspapers were also present.

The benches in the gallery at the end of the hall were sconfilled by ladies attired in elegant toilettes. The weather was warm and as the crowd sat in the court room, the temperature rose to almost suffocation. This drawback had no effect upon the eagerness of the liadies to listen to the proceedings. They sat calmly fanning themselves throughout the session, paying the closest attention to everything that was said and done. The crowd in the gallery was composed almost entirely of members of the aristocratic circle

Among the foreigners present were Mr. Harris, the British Consul; Mr. Viat, the American Vice-Consul; Maj. Brevoort, Mr. Deacon's brother, an English advocate, and Mr. Middleton, a Professor at the Lycee.

The proceedings opened at 9:20 with Judge Aubertin, President of the court, on the beach. The Count Du Moiron, Procureur of the Republic, represented the prosecution. Mr. Deacon was represented by Maitre de Mange, a celebrated advocate of the Paris bar; M. Goirand, an equally well-known lawyer of Paris; Frank Pilotte of the Nice bar, and Solicitor Bret of Cannes. The Abeille family, though not taking part, in Abeille family, though not taking part, in the proceedings, were represented by [Maitre

Mr. Deacon was brought into the courtmon by two gendarmes, who escorted him to the prisoner's bench and then took up their position on each side of him. As he entered the room all eyes were directed upon him. The stories that have long been current as to his indifference over the killing, or as to the results of his trial, were belied by his aspect. A pallor, caused either by anxiety or ill health marked his features. He looked health, marked his features. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but con-centrated all his attention upon the judicial bench. He was dressed in black coat, black

CHARACTERS OF THE TRACEDY.

The personality of the actors in the tragedy which culminates in the trial of Edward Parker Deacon for the murder of Emile Abeille, adds largely to the interest always felt in a crime of this character. Judge Aubertin, after rehearsing all he knew of the case, said to Mr. Deacon: "Have you had any previous trouble with the police?"

Mr. Deacon in a calm and dignified tone, replied: "No."

Judge Aubertin: "I hear that you like to drink whisky?"

Mr. Deacon: "I am no drunkard."

Judge Aubertin: "You are of hasty tem-

Mr. Deacon: "She has."
Judge Aubertin: "Your tastes are said to be different. I understand that you prefer the society of Americans, while your wife prefers that of the French?"
To this Mr. Deacon made no reply. Mr. Deacon had up to this time answered the judge in the French language, but the foreman of the jury objected that he could not clearly understand Mr. Dacon's French, and then the examination was continued through an interpreter. Mr. Deacon answered in English and the interpreter expiained. Mr. English and the interpreter expanied. Mr. Deacon, on the invitation of the president of the court, recounted his relations with his wife from their marriage until 1890. As the questioning was continued Mr. Deacon made bad breaks in his French and his language became less perfect. The court thought it better to secure the services of an interpreter, and thereafter Mr. Deacon gave his evidence in English.

Continuing his testimony, he said that Continuing his testimony, he said that after his suspicions were aroused violent scenes between himself and his wife became frequent. His mother and brother-in-law were informed of the state of affairs. They said that jealousy was at the bottom of the trouble, and counseled moderation. Acting on their advice, he renewed his amicable relations with Mrs. Deacon, but at the same time he resolved to watch her closely. About this time the family physician advised him to go to Homburg. He was suffering from inflammation of the stomach.

Mrs. Deacon started for St. Moritz at the same time. While Mr. Deacon was at Homburg he received anonymous letters stating that Abeille was with his wife. Mr. Deacon wrote to her from Homberg, saying that she must cease all acquaintance with Abeille. Although he then had no doubt about his wife's indelity, still there was a scandal which he could not tolerate. He wrote Mrs. Deacon that she must choose between himself and Abeille or let him (Mr. Deacon) have a divorce. Mr. Deacon promised to be a good, loving husband, but insisted that she must break off her relations with Abeille. She made no reply to this letter for ten days. Then she wrote that she had taken time to consider the contents of his letter. Mrs.

Deacon said that she was not responsible for the presence of Abeille at St. Moritz. Her nervous system, she added, was too much affected by Mr. Deacon's tyrannical conduct and she could no longer stand it. She concluded her letter by declaring that her hus cluded her letter by declaring that her hus-band could send the police or do whatever else he liked. In another letter Mrs. Deacon said that she could not stand such insults as her husband offered her and that all relations between them should cease. Henceforth, she said, they would only communi-cate with each other through her lawyer. She added that Mr. Deacon had in the meantime better go to the United States and give her repose. Mrs. Deacon knew that her b is-band had to go to the United Stotes at about this time on matters of business.

In replying to this letter Mr. Deacon wrote that he would like to see her in Geneva before he started for the United States. Her reply to this was that she was very nervous, and that it would not be well to meet. Mr. Deacon sent a telegram to St. Moritz to see her, but a reply came to this telegram that Mrs. Deacon was on the point of leaving St. Moritz with Countess de Gramont for the lakes.

TO IMPROVE MISSOURI SCHOOLS. State Superintendent Wolfe Speaks of the Plans for This Year.

During the past year numerous complaints Wolfe, State Superintendent of Schools at Jefferson City, of the lack of attendance at many of the district schools throughout the State. In districts of the average size the attendance during the past six months has fallen as low as six or eight pupils. Supt. Wolfe worried over the matter for a while and at last decided upon a plan which, he thinks, will go a long way in remedying the and at last decided upon a plan which, he thinks, will go a long way in remedying the trouble.

"In order that the teaching force of Missouri may be strengthened," said Supt. Wolfe yesterday, "county institutes lasting a month will be held during the coming summer, in every county in the State. That the teachers may have better equipped and more enthusiastic instructors, the State Training School will be in session in the Warrensburg State Normal Building June 24 to 5 July, for the purpose of training and licensing institute instructors. The first session of the Training School will be in session in the Warrensburg State Normal Building June 24 to 5 July, for the purpose of training and licensing institute instructors. The first session of the Training School last June was a remarkable success, enrolling 20 of Missourl's ablest instructors from 100 counties. Each step laken at the training school will have definitely in view the improvement of every school in the State, and is therefore of vital interest to every patron. Whatever anyone may do to secure one or more leading representatives from each county and to arouse an educational interest in the State association, the training school and the institutes, will be much appreciated. I would be pleased to furnish anyone with a brief account of the proceedings of the association and training school, in order that the army of patrons may know what is being done. It is not enough that we interest daiso, through the patrons must be interested also, through the patrons must be interested also, through the patrons must be interested also, through the press. The State Teachers' Association will be in session at Pertle Springs, Warrensburg, June 21-23. Last year the enrollment reached 600. This year, it is confidently believed, it will reach 1,000. At the National Educational Association held at Toronto, Canada, last July, Missouri ranked third in attendance, being led only by Illinois and Ohlo. It is believed that we will occupy a like position of pre-eminence at the c

They had raised, he asserts, the sum of $275,000 at par rate of exchange, for corrupting the soldiers, hiring roughs and contracting mercenaries in foreign colonies. They succeeded, he states, in bribing a Captain. To two other men they gave money for engaging colonists, promising them more. The conspirators, he alleges, had emissaries in all parts of the State who were sending men to the capital to take part in the revolution. They were in communication with other conspirators in Rio de Janeiro. Rio Grande do Sul, Bahia and Pernambuco. The conspirators met at a vacant house belonging to Dr. Jesuino Cardoxo. The revolution was to break out in the city of Sao Paulo at 5 o'clock a. m. on the 27th uit. At that hour a band of armed men was to set out from a suburb called Villa Marianna, and after being joined by policemen who had been won over and by soldiers of the Seventh Battalion of Infantry, the whole, under the command of Col, Pieragibe, was to march on to the President's official residence. After taking possession of this building they would let off rockets to inform the members of the dissolved Legislature, who were to be at the aforesald vacant house of Dr. Jesuine awaiting the Issue. Apprised of the success of the movement, these gentlemen would hasten to the President's residence and there organize the state government, offering the presidency to the deposed President, Dr. Americo Brazilince, and in case of his refusal to accept it they would offer it to Dr. Perciera Barreto, and if he declined to Dr. Miranda Azevedo. NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles J. Baker, of Baltimore, has just presented to the Ameri-can Bible Society a manuscript containing the whole Bible written in the Latin

C. W. Hodens, Postmaster at East Lamoine Me., writes that Mrs. Kelly's Lamoine Me., writes that Mrs. Kelly's son, who had been confined to bed four-teen months with an Abscess, has been cured sound and well by Swift's Specific. The boy is fourteen years old, lives next door to me, and I know the statement to be true.

S. S. S. has a wonderful effect on children, and should be given to every weak and debilitated child. Send for our book on the Blood and Skin.

The Directors' Handicap to Be Decided at the Fair Grounds.

CORRIGAN SENDS HIS GREAT HORSE RILEY HERE TO CONTEST.

A Roce in Which All the Western Cracks Are Entered-St. Louis Meets With Its Hanal Defeat at Louisville Yesterday-To-Morrow's Bicycle Road Bace at

Forest Park-Sporting News. Directors' Handicap which will be de led at the St. Louis Jockey Club's course morrow afternoon is one of the richest adicaps that will be run in the West this It is a sweepstake of $50 each for ads $2,500 to the stake, out of which the the fourth will save stakes. The race will be rse. Ninety-two entries have been made West. The weights were in the West. The weights were increased last Sunday. J. P. Smallwood's aged son of the imported St. Mungo and Ollis, Alona, will carry the top weight, 129 pounds. This horse has been running quite regularly since the meeting opened. He ran one remarkably good race here, but has also run some poor ones, notably when he was defeated by Servitor, an old Guttenburg skate. Aloha is auguestionably a very good horse. some poor ones, notably when he was defeated by Servitor, an old Guttenburg grate. Aloha is unquestionably a very good horse, nevertheless, but has never done anything to justify the handicapper in asking him to concede four pounds to Ed Corrigan's great 5-year-old son of Longfellow, Riley. The latter is one of the greatest horses in America and of himself should be able to defeat Aloha handily enough at even weights. It is tree that Riley prefers a longer distance, but it is the general belief that he has the stake at his mercy. Ed Corrigan evidently thinks so too for he has sent the horse here specially to run for the stake. The master of Hawthorne to save Riley from penalties may try to win with either Helter Skelter or Ethel, both of whom are entered and may be started. The former won the Inagural Handicap here with ease and Ethel has also been doing excellently at Memphis, Lexington and Nashville, where she has campaigned the present spring. Helter Skelter is down to carry 122 pounds and Ethel is expected to shoulder 113. Corrigan's fine coit Huron is also in at 109 pounds but he will probably be sent for the Latonia Derby which is also to be run to morrow. The Chicago turiman also has Dundee in at 104 pounds. Wm. Mulkey's Virge d'or will, providing he starts, carry 122 pounds. He ran poorly yesterday, but the race should improve him for to-morrow. Yesterday's race was his first of the season. W. H. Bobb's Guido is in at 121 pounds. He ran in a purse race the other day, and while he secured the place he can hardly be said to have run in the manner a horse of his class is expected to. Faithful, who will also said to have run in the manner a horse of his class is expected to. Faithful, who will also carry 121 pounds, should he start, has been running very consistently this spring, but is heavily weighted for a 4-year-old. Oregon Eclipse will carry 119 pounds, one more than the pride of the Scroggans string, Vallera. Both of these horses are good ones, and the same can be said of that other California crack, Tim Murphy, who is down to shoulder 111 pounds. All three are dangerous at these weights. Princess Limo and Glockner, who will sport Jim Williams' colors, will carry 109 and 108 pounds respectively. Beth aid to have run in the manner a horse of his will sport Jim Williams' colors, will carry 109 and 108 pounds respectively. Both are expected to start, and it is thought that at least two or the five Gambrinias stable's entries, which are as follows: Vortex, ill pounds; Wautauga, 98; Jim Head, 98; Goyoso, 96, and Miss Pickwick, 2. Chief Justice, who yesterday defeated Virge d'Or so handily, is in at 100 pounds, and in his present form should be extremely dangerous at that weight. Four thousand persons journeyed out to the Fair Grounds yesterday, notwithstanding the uncertain condition of the weather, and were rewarded by witnessing some excellent sport. The track was lumpy and slow. The feature of the programme was the Real Estate Stakes, which was the third event run. In the betting the Gambrinus Stables' entry, Starter Caldwell sent them away at the attempt to an excellent Wightman led for over start. Wightman led for over a quarter of a mile, after which he commenced to die out; at the head of the stretch he gave way to Italia and Ray S. A hammer and-tong finish ensued between the pair, which ended at the wire with Ray S. in front by a head. Lord Willowbrooke was two lengths behind Italia. The opening scramble was captured by Cornie Buckingham, a 7, to 1 shot. Ben Payne, who closed at 8 to 1, was successful in the second event. Kismet, another rank outsider at 15 to 1, captured the fourth race, and the closing event was won by Chief Justice, a well-played second choice, who closed at 4 to 1. The summaries follow:

A Cincinnati exchange says that George Hankins, the Garcial Park magnate of Chicago, is down at Louisville endeavoring to induce the prominent stables running at that point to move up to Chicago as soon as the Churchill Downs meeting closes. Hankins, so it is claimed, offered them free cars and transportation, including rubbers, trainest and handlers, and Col. M. Louis Clark, who is engaged to officate as presiding judge at the conds, when the conds and the result was that 1,500 people and censed by the breaking down of the chairs and benefits and conds. TO-MORROW'S RACE, the Garfield cours e, is said to be doing his best to help flankins along. Not much success has resulted from their joint selforts said, and it is claimed that most of the string at Louisville will split up between this city and Latonia.

The Washington Park Jockey Club of Chicago has just issued a programme for its spring meeting, which opens Saturday, June 26, when the big American Derby, which has ito,000 added money and 124 nominations, will be run. The meeting will continue twenty-five days, ending July 23. The purses will average between $600 and $700, and five or more races will be run each day.

Gascon, who is now at Louisville, is said to be looking hearty, and he is taking his slow work so well that it is almost certain that he will soon be given a chance to show whether he has regained his 2-year-old form.

Ignite, in the Bashford stable, is said to be quite the prettiest thing that has been seen at thurchill Downs since Thora broke down behind Lida Stanhope in the cup and Miss Woodford galloped off with the Stallion stakes.

John Ward thinks the twelve-club idea wil ot last many seasons; but he does not an ticipate any more troublesome outbreaks. The Brooklyn captain and manager claims that the great fault of the twelve-club idea is the extra expense to the clubs, made necessary by additional travelling and the loss of a great deal of rest to the players. In the twelve-club schedule, he says, the players get only one night's rest at a hotel in three, except when they have a lay-over on Sunday. That makes it about as trying as traveling with a circus or a one-night-stand theatrical company.

THE BROWNS AS USUAL DEFEATED. The Browns met Fred Pfeffer's Colone esterday for the first time this season at Louisville and as usual it was the same old story, the Browns came out second best. Gleason was in the box and he pitched an excellent game, at least such is the conclusion one reaches after studying the summary over. But eight hits were made off his delivery. It was enough, however, to permit the Colonels, with the assistance of the Browns poor fielding, to register seven runs. Meekin, who pitched for the Colonels, was touched up for eleven hits, including doubles by Caruthers and Glasscock, but the superbield work of the Colonels, who played an errorless game, prevented the Browns from registering more than five times. Grim's catching and Taylor's work on first were the features of the home team's work. Brodie, as usual, put up a great game in center for the Browns. The summary follows: Louisville, 7; Browns, 5. BASE BALL GOSSIP. Capt. Nash of Boston speaks highly of Hurst's umpiring. Browning is as happy as the day is long. His feet are all right. John M. Ward says that over-confidence will lead to Boston's downfall. Smiling Mickey Welch pounded out by the tail-enders! Verily the New York's cup of gall is running over.

Louisville released Pete Browning yesterday. The great batter's eyesight is said to have gone back on him.

The Philadelphia-Washington and the Chicago-Cleveland games were postponed yesterday on account of rain. The Bostonians are talking of releasing both Harry Stover and John Clarkson. Neither of them were taken to Brooklyn. The New York papers are calling on Buck Ewing to go behind the bat and relieve Boyle. Buck will stay where he is. He knows a good thing when he gets it.

George Haddock made his initial appearance in the box this season at Brooklyn yesterday. His pitching was too much for the Boston champions, who were unable to make more than four hits off his delivery. more than four hits off his delivery.

Chicago and the Browns will not play two games at this point to-day, as was previously announced. Yesterday's postponed Chicago Cleveland contest will have to be played off to-day, which will prevent the Windy City aggregation from playing at this point.

In an interview at Louisville yesterday President Von der Ahe denied that there was any truth in the rumor about dissatisfaction existing among his players. The boss president claims that on the contrary he has not yet fined a player this season. He says everything is lovely so far as the boys are concerned, and if the Browns could only manage to be successful more frequently he would be more than satisfied.

The course will have to be covered five times to make the requisite seventeen and a half miles. Checkers will be placed all along the course to oversee such part to which they are assigned. They will closely watch the riding and immediately after the race they will report to the referee any competitor whose riding may have been unfair. President Emery will distribute the prizes at the conclusion of the race.

SALT LAKE, Utah, May 20.—The ten-round contest between Jim Williams, champlon of Utah, and Charles Lange, the former agreeing to knock Lange out in ten rounds, almost inded in a rlot. Lange was badly used up in

It is also announced that Robert Acton, the young Irish athlete whom sensational press dispatches last fall represented as coming to Yale to play football at a handsome salary, has been located. He is at Harvard pulling an oar on the 'Varsity boat, it is alleged. Yale men are looking up his record, and have written Bob Cook about the case. It is said that charges of professionalism will be preferred against him.

Important Hearings—The Tax Reduction Bill May Cause Trouble. The Board of Public Improvements at its three proposed improvements of great inter to property-owners. The widen-of the McPherson avenue strip on the Lindell Boulevard at the point where the proposed park is to be established will be up for consideration and arguments heard pro and con.

The widening of Market street in front of the new Union Depot will also be considered. The hearing which is expected to bring forth the greatest amount of argument will be on the proposed widening of Franklin avenue from Ninth street to Sixth street. The matter was brought up on a petition signed by 800 property holders, along the district immediately benefited. But some opposition has been expressed by property owners living higher up on the street. Benefits will be assessed against them and for that reason they object to the proposed improvement. The Tax Reduction Bill.

There is a prospect of the Council and House of Delegates again getting at loggerheads. Comptroller Stevenson's bill reduc ing the taxes for paying off the indebtedness from 50 cents to $100 is the rock on which they will split. The members of the City Council are set on keeping the tax at its present rate and clearing off the debt as soon as possible, while the House has shown a willingness to listen to the Comptroller's argument and pass the reduction. The Comptroller's idea is that there is no particular hurry about clearing off the bonded indebtedness. His system will accompalish it in thirty-seven years, and the burden of taxation will be comparatively light. The other side declare that the whole matter is only a scheme of the Comptroller's to win over public opinion in view of the approaching city election. They say that the credit of the city will be greatly increased by its being out of debt and that at the present rate it will be accomplished in twenty years, while the burden on the tax-payers is comparatively light. The fate of the bill is being watched with great interest. ing the taxes for paying off the indebtedne

POLICE CHANGES.

Capt. Joyce.

Chief Harrigan Indorses the Discipline

In speaking this morning of the police changes made by Chief Harrigan yesterday in the Third Police District, the Chief said that they were made to increase the efficiency of the department. The Third District is considered next in importance to the Central and the former high standard of officiency enjoyed by the Third has not been maintained recently, Chief Harrigan thinks. There have been too burglaries in the district of late and a change had to be made. Sergts. Shore and Bree were transferred to the Fourth and Sergt. Dawson to the Central while their places in the Third were ordered filled by the transfer of Sergt. Cummins from the Central and Sergts. Walsh and Sullivan from the Fourth. Shore and Bree have been in the Third District almost as long as they have been in the Police Department, Bree for twenty years and over and Shore for more than a quarter of a century. Jack Shore has been a Third District sergeant over twenty years. Sergt. Sullivan is also an old-time sergeant, and has served in the Third District before as also in the Central. Some of the sergeants and officers of the Third District before as also in the Central. Some of the sergeants and officers of the Third District claim that Capt. Joyce has been unreasonably strict in his administration of the district and that if the efficiency of the force has been impaired, it was due to the tyranny of the captain, but Chief Harrigan says that there is no ground whatever for any such complaint or charge." Capt. Joyce can't be too strict for me, "said the Chief this morning. "I want him to be strict. Discipline is needed in that district as in every other one." ourglaries in the district of late and a change

Sore throat is the cause of more than half the trouble that comes from contagious diseases. The germs of these maladies such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, mumps, measles, smallpox and the like float in the air. They can be taken into the human system without danger, if they do not find an abraded surface. If they do, they enter the blood and swarm in millions. It is well known that diphtheria can be taken from a wound on the skin on the body. It is particularly noticeable that when such a malady as diphtheria rages it always attacks people after they have caught a slight cold.
